

A PLEA FOR THE LOGGERHEAD.

SANIBEL, FLA., Aug. 1, 1900.—Our beach has been the favorite annual rendezvous for the loggerhead turtle, where, in the summer months, they could deposit their eggs with some assurance of hope that maternal instinct would reap its reward in due time, as a nestful of youngsters scrambled down to their native element and to the open flippers of their patient, waiting, big-headed mother.

But civilization is doing for the Sanibel turtle what our "paternal" government is doing for the red Indian, and the family turtle-turtle of the present will ere long be a thing of the past. The boys have turned a few this season and the eggs have supplemented "hen fruit" in the culinary department very nicely.

The loggerhead requires quite an effort to associate it with anything like sentiment, but when you come to think of it, their poor, ungainly lives are full of it. One can hardly look upon these marine monstrosities without a feeling of repulsion, and yet those great, lumpy heads are full of sense, and the hearts that beat under those cavernous shells throb with a genuine tenderness that would not disgrace the fairest forms of humanity.

I do not waste imagination by picturing turtle love beneath the green depths of ocean. How the old, old story of tender courtship is enacted by these crawlers of the deep; how preferential glances of expressive eyes awaken the tender passions in responsive shells; how jealousies and duels between rival turtles tear up the smooth sands of the ocean bed; and how "none but the brave deserve the fair" is the reenacted story in the caverns of the deep, as well as on dry land, may be safely left to the imagination of those who revel in speculative philosophy. But where turtle life touches ours and becomes a matter of curious observation, there are several things that awaken interest, and some that stir the deepest sympathies of our better natures.

The female turtle is ill-fitted, by structural difficulties, for sitting on her eggs till hatched, so, with divinely given instinct, she deposits them in the sand, above high water mark, but within 50 yards or so of the beach. To dwellers by the seaside this is a familiar story; but it may have a transient interest for your readers in the interior.

The absorbing question with our unwieldy loggerhead is, how best to protect her helpless progeny, in the egg, from marauders. Coons and other "varmints" delight in turtle eggs, and search for them with all the cunning pertinacity of their kind. I have seen crows perched on an adjacent tree, hungrily watching the unconscious victim of their thieving appetites, and marking the spot where the feasting place is to be, when the poor creature, after carefully covering her eggs and hiding her trail, "takes water" again, to wait for the incubation which never comes.

Who can tell the agonies of disappointment that rend the mother heart, when the hopes that have fed her patient waiting of the "appointed time" die out, and she knows that some unremembered calamity has robbed her of her longed-for little ones? I think we make too light of the sorrows of the "lower animals," as we superciliously denominate that multiform creation that swarms outside of humanity. Especially touching are the sorrows of defrauded and disappointed maternity. When one really ponders the subject. What can be more pathetic than the patient sitting of the mother bird upon her eggs, waiting till the first faint chirp of the imprisoned creature within its yet unbroken shell rewards her weeks of careful vigil? Life is there, and she has listened long for its first manifestation. We have all heard that low, soft, tremulous response of the mother bird as she hears the feeble cry that repays her for all her waiting.

There is an infinite pathos in it. The dear God of creation, in Gen. 1:2, has chosen this brooding love scene to tell out how the Spirit hovered over the glorious entities that, in due order, were to replace the "emptiness and confusion" of the chaos that preceded them.

Mother love can glorify a loggerhead turtle; and when, after waiting in the shallows for weeks, her Chelonian brood comes scratching down, pell-mell, into the water, with the unbounded faith of infancy, sure of the mother love and mother care that awaits them, I do not envy the cold heart that can not enter somewhat into the pride and ecstasy of the delighted mater as she swims away with her hundred or more little soft-shelled beauties to a place, previously selected, where she can rear them to maturity.

Nor can I think of that same unwieldy, but tender-hearted monster leaving the spot, after all hope of seeing her young has departed, without a touch of sympathy for the bereaved creature, robbed by ruthless marauders, whether walking on two legs or four.

The cautious cunning of the mother turtle is a study for the naturalist. They begin to "crawl" after the full moon in May, when "turtling" begins. The great lumbering creature comes out of the water and deliberately makes a "trail" on the beach as plain as if a skiff had been dragged up to high water mark and taken back to the water a little way off from its drag-up. This, in turtle tactics, is a mere blind to throw marauders off the track. Then, at the apex of this blind trail, raising herself on the tips of her flippers, she steps cautiously along for many yards to the place where she lays her eggs. She is a good mechanical engineer. How she does it—whether with flipper, beak or tail or all together, I know not; but when the nest is completed it is a cylinder, perfectly shaped, six inches in diameter, and deep enough to hold from 75 to 125 of the peculiar, round, soft, tough-integumented eggs, with a single deep indentation that no ingenuity can do more than shift from one spot to another. In size they are about as large as a pullet's egg.

The covering is deftly performed and every revealing trace carefully obliterated. Then she tiptoes her way back to the blind trail and goes into the water to await incubation.

I declare, when I think it over I feel like a cruel robber, that I have had a hand in causing a pang to that anxious mother, who certainly deserves to be repaid for all her trouble by having at least a few little turtles to reward her faithful love. But up to date I have not heard of man, or bear, or coon or crow that thinks enough of the feelings of the poor loggerhead in the ocean shallows to leave a single egg to hatch for her poor heart to solace itself with, of all the scores she lays for others to steal.

I am afraid we live in the devil's world, and have devilish ways all along the line. "Greater fleas have little fleas, That do annoy and bite 'em; And little fleas have lesser fleas, And so ad infinitum." And not only so; on the other hand, the great oppress the small; the strong the weak; and animate nature, to its remotest ramifications, presents the pitiful spectacle of helpless lives perpetually pursued by remorseless pursuers who happen to be stronger. I wish the Lord would come out and put an end to this carnival of horror. I am humbled when I think I have a hand in perpetrating it, however unwittingly.

IT SAVED HIS BABY. H. Doak, of Williams, Ore. "I am happy to say it gave immediate relief, and a complete cure." For sale by Craig & Hocker.

Rev. Mr. Stamper, who confesses an intimate acquaintance with Powers and Taylor, might put in some good professional work by convincing his good friends of the foolishness, if not the wickedness, of using curse words. The testimony has shown that in the use of profanity the two eminent exponents of "civil liberty" are able to hold their own in a test of swearing with the famous trooper or a blasphemous pirate.—Louisville Times.

A NIGHT OF TERROR. "A wild anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon be free from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and her condition completely changed." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Croup, Croup, and Lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. Waite and several subordinate railway officials were here last week to make preparations for having the tunnel cut out to some extent at each end.

Your correspondent has been suffering from an attack of the grip or something very much like it in tenacity. Albert Eugene Ball, of Lexington, returned home today, Saturday, after a week's visit with his sister, Mrs. J. M. McCarty.

Tusco Waters was shot by a man named Elliott at a picnic in Casey county. He was brought in and taken to Dr. Thompson's office, where after an examination he was found to be only slightly wounded. The shooting was supposed to be accidental.

The G. A. R. reunion is to come off Aug. 23, 24 and 25 instead of in September as stated in a former letter. W. L. McCarty is making extensive preparations and is confident of making it a success. He is to be assisted by Rev. M. A. Middleton. A band of music is engaged, "Merry-go-Rounds" ordered and other things toward making everybody have a good time.

Mrs. Sophia Davis, who has been the guest at the homes of her brothers, W. L. and J. M. McCarty, has returned to her home at Pineville. Mrs. Lottie Chaw and niece, Miss Gertrude Pennybacker, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Dan Dineen, at Somerset, a few days last week. T. F. Johnson, with his wife and baby, made a recent visit to his sister, Mrs. J. K. Carson, and family at Mt. Olive. Mrs. W. R. Cundiff recently enjoyed a visit from her mother, Mrs. J. A. Wright, of Stanford. Claude Pennybacker, who has been indisposed for some time, has recovered and returned to his position at Burgin. Mack Williams, station agent at Brannon, spent a few days with his mother and nephew here.

Messrs. D. B. Edmiston and Albert Faulkner are on duty at Curley's distillery this month.

Col. J. W. Miller has a well-bred, promising young trotter, which he has named Rob Hughes.

On Friday lightning killed a pair of work mules, worth $200, belonging to J. M. Hlatt and a fine export steer belonging to Gibbs brothers.

The public will be glad to learn that my space in the INTERIOR JOURNAL will be filled with better matter than my letters are, until Sept. 1, as I will be off duty.

The reception, given on Saturday evening at the Presbyterian church in honor of Dr. J. L. McKee, wife and daughter, was an enjoyable event. Refreshments were served in the basement.

Dr. Acton's horse became frightened and ran with the buggy into the carriage, in which Mesdames Walden and Campbell were riding, both vehicles being damaged, but no one was injured.

Dr. H. M. Grant has been offered the lucrative position of U. S. surgeon, with the rank of captain in China, by the U. S. surgeon general. If he accepts he will make an efficient officer as he is up in the profession.

We have been blessed with plenty of rain and corn will be abundant and very cheap. Some farmer will please to explain to me, through the INTERIOR JOURNAL, why cheap corn makes high priced hogs, when it costs less to fatten the hogs.

Beasley Bros., Gibbs Bros. and Jake Y. Robinson have 350 fine export cattle and they have formed a combine of cattle trust. Like Col. Thos. Payne Hill once did, they have declared that they will kill and eat them if they can not sell at 50 cents.

Dr. B. F. Walter brought me a tomato which weighed 1½ pounds, but Maj. J. A. Burnside brought eight. In a cluster, like bananas, which he said weighed 16 pounds. They can be seen at Ballou's grocery. So far, the major is the champion in the cultivation of that vegetable.

Mr. Harvey Yantis, the oldest man in the county, is suffering of paralysis. F. B. Fessinger has vacated the Gardner Hotel, having moved his family to Louisville. The hotel company now offers the house for rent, and the right man can get it at a price that will enable him to do well. The opera house is also for rent.

J. W. Miller caught a channel cat fish in his lake at Pilgrimage distillery that was 24 inches long and weighed six pounds. He says that it required considerable skill to land him, as his line was weak, and yet I learn that he dragged him up the bank and then threw him over his head before the hook was removed.

Mrs. W. S. Miller, of Knoxville, is with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Miller. Messrs. J. C. Warner, Garret Elkin and W. J. Romans are on the sick list. Judge W. E. Walker is not well enough to be on duty. Dr. W. N. Bush has returned from Georgia in much better health. Miss Mary Welch has returned to Nicholasville, after making many friends here.

Late Friday evening George B. Robinson left his wife in his buggy till he made a purchase. Her shrieks caused a large crowd to come to her rescue. A horse, which was led behind the buggy, had turned it over by some means, and the family horse did some high kicking. Fortunately she was rescued, without injury, and but little damage was done to the team.

A SUCCESS, Financially and Otherwise Was The Hustonville Fair.

Another Hustonville Fair is a pleasant memory. Although there were those who thought it not good judgment to hold an exhibition this year and others who kicked against the proposition, the third annual exhibition of the New Hustonville Fair Association was a success in every sense of the word. The crowds were larger than ever before and there was more and better stock. A nice dividend will be declared and next year all will favor a fair.

President James P. Harper, Secretary W. D. Hocker, Treasurer J. H. Hocker and the large list of directors all worked hard for the success of the exhibition and are deserving of the heartiest congratulations. Hustonville people upheld their reputation for being the most hospitable in the country and are entitled to much praise for their untiring efforts to make all feel that it was good to be there. RINGLETS. The rain of Friday cut the crowd some but there were about 2,500 people present.

Carroll Bailey took one blue tie on W. A. Tribble's Kate Malloy and one on his fine three-year-old mare.

"Judge Sautley is a regular Roosevelt Rough Rider," remarked a young lady as he rode in the walking ring.

The timber used in building the amphitheatre, etc., of the Hustonville fair will be sold at auction Saturday, Aug. 18.

The order during the entire fair was good. No fights, very little drinking and nothing to mar pleasure, except probably too much hospitality.

The following ladies were judges in the fancy turnout ring: Misses Jessie Deane Cook, Mattie Dinwiddie, Mary Carpenter and Mesdames F. F. Sandidge and W. H. Hays.

Many thought Goddard & Buster with Red Leaf should have gotten the tie in the $150 roadster ring instead of I. C. James, who drove Lady Rochester, but there was no kicking.

T. L. Carpenter's herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle was greatly complimented. He has expended no little money in promoting the cattle interest in the county and his efforts are appreciated by all lovers of good cattle.

There were seven entries in the baby ring, including the twins of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carter. The pretty baby of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Allen won, with Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hunn's cute little entry second. Instead of a $25 cup, Mr. E. C. Hopper was to give in this ring he gave 25 silver dollars.

There were three entries in the fancy turnout ring and each was good enough to wear a blue tie. The ladies and gentlemen who occupied the veritable chariots were: Miss Bert Livingston, of Clinton, Mo., and J. T. Crenshaw, Miss Minnie Eastham, of Danville, and W. S. Drye, Miss Melbie Hopper of Hustonville, and Bledsoe Bailey.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) College of Kentucky, offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate courses of study are also provided, leading each to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty numbers more than 30 professors and instructors.

County Appointees receive tuition, room rent in dormitories, fuel and lights, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses. The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive, modern. The last Legislature appropriated $20,000 for a college home for young women and $30,000 for drill hall and gymnasium for men.

Military tactics and science are fully provided for and required by Congress. Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the college to supply.

Last year the matriculation list was 563. For catalogues, method of obtaining appointments, information regarding courses of study and terms of admission, apply to JAMES K. PATTERSON, Ph. D., L. L. D., President, Or to V. E. MUNCY, Business Agent.

ABOARD THE C. &amp; O.,

En Route to the Old Virginia Home.

Not often in my busy life have I had time to take a vacation, but I am going to do so now, regardless of time or whether school keeps or not. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy and I have worked so long and so incessantly as not only to be dull, but absolutely stupid. Unless the affliction has become chronic I hope to cure it by a visit to the scenes of my childhood and amid fond recollections live over again the happy days when life was one sweet song and caroling cares were unknown. So with the wife and little ones nicely stowed away in the magnificent Fast Flying Virginian of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, I am steaming towards the Old Virginia home as fast as wheels can carry me.

We, who are accustomed to rattler-trap coaches and bad accommodations on the Knoxville division of the L. & N., can hardly imagine a train as palatial as the one we are on. It is lighted by electricity and heated by steam, when necessary, and there is every convenience and comfort known to modern travel. The coaches are veritable palaces on wheels and glisten and sparkle in their magnificence. A dining car is attached, which serves a meal on a hotel car discount. The charge is a dollar, which is pretty stiff to a man who sends a semi-weekly, seven-column newspaper a whole year for the same money, but when we go a'cattin' we go a'cattin' and expenses are lost sight of for a season.

Accidents happen alike in well regulated families as on well managed railroads and it being my luck we encountered a freight wreck near Hanley, W. Va., last night. A car had jumped the track into a culvert and we were detained more than three hours. The ill wind that blew for the railroad company and the freight crew blew good for us, however, in that it gave Mrs. Walton a chance to see for the first time the rugged and picturesque scenery along the upper Kanawha, New and Greenbrier rivers. We awoke just as Kanawha Falls was passed. The water was dashing and splashing, the spray was rising and the sun was peeping over the hills just as they were when we first beheld the spot 30 years ago. But time and money have wrought a wonderful change along the line though and towns and branch roads appear where pristine forests and frowning rocks had held carnival for ages undisturbed. Coal and iron ore abound on every hand and to dig for them has brought a big population to this hitherto almost unoccupied section. The railroad runs just above the rivers and in many cases the bed was hewed out of solid rock in mountain cliffs that rise perpendicular from the raging streams. I built a good deal of the road myself and know the hardships, difficulties and expense that attended its preparation for one of the finest trunk lines of the country. It didn't look in those days that such a train could ever glide so smoothly and so swiftly through the then wild and weird country. But man and money make a team that overcome all obstacles and almost work miracles.

The top of the Allegheny Mountains is the dividing line between the Virginias at the point that the C. & O. enters the Old Dominion through a tunnel more than a mile long. As we emerge from it we see again the hills and valleys of the dear old State and breathe the air, which has not been contaminated by assassins nor vitiated by political conspiracies against law and order. It is a relief to get as far as possible from such a state of affairs as the republicans have brought upon Kentucky and I am already enjoying the change. I find the people are much interested in the Georgetown trial and all honest people hope with us to see the guilty get their dues and the last one of the conspirators die the ignominious death they deserve.

Among the old friends aboard the train is Mr. D. A. Shanahan, now of Louisville, but originally of Virginia. He is an extensive railroad contractor and has contracts now in Chicago, Richmond and on the Greenbrier. Many of our readers will remember him as one of the contractors on the Kentucky Central extension. He is the same gentle, mild-mannered "Dan" as of old and with the exception of having worn most of the hair off the summit of his cranium is apparently as young and fully as handsome as he used to be.

Virginia hasn't been favored with rain as has Kentucky and judging from the appearance of the fields she will have to send to us for her corn supply.

The crop along the railroad will be a failure at least as no amount of moisture could now ruin the nubbins prospect. It takes a good deal of work under the most favorable circumstances to make much of the land in Virginia yield to the husbandman's demands, but the average citizen is industrious and usually manages to make at least a good living, which he is ever ready to dispense with hearty hospitality. We are at Gordonsville now and these few lines must close to catch the mail to their destination. W. P. W.

The prosecution in the Powers case received a pretty severe jolt when it was "gold bricked" by Fakir Weaver. A blow of this kind always weakens the chances of the Commonwealth, no matter how strong the proof may otherwise be. Kentucky juries as a general rule are in sympathy with the man on trial and any step on the part of the prosecution which has the appearance of unfairness goes a long way toward raising "a reasonable doubt" in their minds. Powers will doubtless get the benefit of this maudlin sentiment as far as it can be consistently given, the assassination organs to the contrary notwithstanding. However, nobody wants Powers convicted unless his guilt is clearly shown by truthful evidence, and all good people will rejoice to see Weaver punished for his crime of perjury. By cross examination before he was put on the stand, the attorneys ought to have detected him as a fraud, for it is very common in trials of public interest for notoriety seekers of his stripe to report themselves to one side or the other as "casually" passing along just at the opportune moment to see or hear something of importance.

In his testimony at Georgetown, Stephen G. Sharpe named a half dozen or more offices that he had held and said that he could think of no more at the time. All of these offices were bestowed on him by the democracy, but as soon as it ceased to favor him in this respect, he deserted to the enemy. Mr. Sharpe's case, however, is a very common one. Nearly all of the disgruntled democrats in the State have been honored by the party with office, but as soon as this favor ceased, they could no longer stand its frauds and corruption. As long as they were kept in office, no matter by what means, everything was all right, but as soon as they were defeated, no matter how fairly no virtue was left in the party.

EX-AUDITOR STONE says he discharged Culton because he stole $1,000, but for certain reasons failed to have him arrested. The people would like to know the reasons of so good a man as Mr. Stone shielding a thief.

The picture of Powers' counsel in Sunday's Courier Journal only discloses one half of our friend, Judge Denny. This is very appropriate, for one half of Denny in any particular is a plenty.

THE king of Italy has been assassinated and an attempt made to end the reign of the Shah of Persia in the same way. The bad example set by the Kentucky republicans is spreading.

MR. WEAVER is a barber by occupation and of course he had to talk too much.

THE POWERS TRIAL

The following is a resume of the evidence in the Powers case since our last issue: Col. C. C. Mengel, of the 1st regiment, received two "all right" telegrams from Collier Jan. 30, one at 2 and the other at 2:10 P. M. He also received an order from Taylor on Jan. 18, instructing him to hold his regiment in readiness to move and to obey all of Collier's orders and signals.

Capt. S. G. Sharpe admitted that he placed men in the executive buildings after the shooting, to prevent any one from entering. As soon as the shot was fired he rushed to Taylor and volunteered his services and was placed in charge of the building. He armed mountaineers who were there and instructed them to allow no one to enter. He also stated that before the shooting a prominent democrat, whose name he refused to give, told him the democrats had 2,000 men and rifles to use in the contest.

EX-AUDITOR S. H. Stone stated that on Dec. 30 last, he discharged Culton from a clerkship in the auditor's office for stealing $1,000. He didn't have him arrested, however, and failed to report the fact to Sweeney, his successor, who employed Culton. In an interview Culton denies the allegation and defies the alligator.

J. L. Harklerod had seen Golden with a big roll of money and heard him say he was in the $100,000. This witness has been frequently indicted for illegal liquor traffic.

J. Sam Butler, Taylor's right hand bower, had conferred with no one but Powers about a Western Kentucky army of civil liberty. He was with Taylor until midnight, Jan. 29, and nothing was said about it. This contradicts Powers on that point. He also stated that Powers rebuked Burton for saying the contest should be settled by exploding some cartridges in the right place. Gen. D. R. Collier stated that troops were not called out until after the shooting of Goebel and that there was no previous arrangement about bringing troops to Frankfort except that all had orders to be in readiness and that the words "all right" by telegraph meant to come. He admitted on cross-examination that guns and ammunition were brought to the capitol grounds before the shooting.

It was proved beyond doubt that G. F. Weaver, who claimed he saw the rifle protruding from Powers window when Goebel was shot, was at Grayson Springs at the time, 130 miles away. Mr. Weaver is under arrest for perjury and will soon be a resident of Frankfort arrayed in a striped suit.

Reuben Miller, Powers' room mate and corporation clerk in his office, stated that Powers was not in his office on the afternoon of Jan. 25, when Robert Noaks claims to have had numerous conferences with him there, but was in his room sick. He also stated that troops didn't arrive until half an hour after the shooting.

Ben Rowe, the colored porter, corroborated Miller, and, although in reception room all of Jan. 30, knew practically nothing about the shooting or of what transpired in Powers' office. He raised the window in Powers' office. Miller and Rowe are members of the Indiana colony.

Capt. G. R. Bullock was in Collier's office and heard only one shot. He went out and saw a man crouching behind the fountain, 10 minutes before Goebel was carried out and 30 minutes after shot before soldiers came.

Capt. D. Walcutt, in charge of arsenal, heard of shooting at 11:30 and moved soldiers to Capitol 20 minutes later. B. S. Stone, Taylor's stenographer, heard all shots. Taylor came out, asked who was shot, expressed sorrow and ordered out troops.

F. C. Elkins and D. G. Falconer told of conference at a farmer's house about the Van Meter contest.

Concerning the charge made by ex-Auditor Sam Stone that he stole $1,000 while in his office, W. H. Culton has this to say: "There is not a word of truth in the charges made against me. I was never discharged by Col. Stone and was retained in the auditor's office under Mr. Sweeney till some time in January. During that month, Gov. Taylor arranged with Mr. Sweeney for me to go to the mountains to look after witnesses, and Gov. Taylor and Caleb Powers stood for my salary. I was not stricken from the roll of clerks, however, and was never discharged. Stone never paid a cent on my account in his life."

The jury will be taken to Frankfort at conclusion of the evidence to view the place of killing.

The trial may last two weeks longer. There will be five speeches on a side and the Georgetown prophets predict a hung jury.

POLITICAL

There are now five gubernatorial tickets in the Kentucky field.

Luke Pryor, former Senator from Alabama, is dead at Athens, aged 81.

The State democratic headquarters will be at Seelbach's Hotel, Louisville.

Mr. Bryan's speech at the notification meeting will be almost entirely devoted to imperialism.

The "Brownies" will meet at Ruler's Hotel in Louisville on the 15th to take action concerning the coming campaign.

Clairborne county, Tenn., which gave McKinley 1,600 majority, went democratic over 200 the other day. This is democratic year.

Hon. W. B. Smith spoke at Richmond yesterday for the democratic ticket and will make a number during the campaign. He is the right sort of a democrat.

The democrats of Williamsburg have organized a Bryan and Stevenson club with a large membership. A. Gatliff, W. H. Parker, J. P. Mahan, George P. Johnson and Walker Mason, leading mountain democrats, were the prime movers.

Hon. John W. Yerkes' speech at Newport Saturday night consisted of a tirade against the existing election law. He said there would be no real political freedom and equality in Kentucky until the Goebel election law has been stricken from the statute books.

Hon. James B. McCreary, State chairman of the Goebel monument fund, received a check this week from Chairman Weaver, of the Louisville committee, amounting to $1,250. This is the largest contribution yet made to the fund, which is assuming enormous proportions.—Richmond Register.

The campaign committee will consist of one member from each congressional district. The State central committee ordered a primary to be held in the 7th district Sep. 29 to determine whether Moody or Trimble shall be the nominee for Congress. The committee informally discussed the election law, but no action was taken.

The elections in North Carolina resulted in a triumph for white supremacy by from 50,000 to 60,000 majority. The constitutional amendment disfranchising the Negro on educational grounds prevailed, the full democratic State ticket was elected and the Legislature is democratic in both branches, presaging the defeat of Senator Butler.

A dispatch from London says: J. H. Tinsley, of Barboursville, one of the attorneys for the defense in the Powers trial at Georgetown, made an extremely inflammatory speech, denouncing Tom Campbell, the Goebel brothers and the prosecution of the trial by saying that hungry hordes of people were following Tom Campbell and the Goebel brothers to get part of the $100,000 reward fund.

EX-UNITED STATES Senator Clark, the multi-millionaire mine owner of Montana, before sailing for Europe on the Lucania, gave $100,000 to the Bryan campaign fund. Besides giving that amount, Mr. Clark has agreed to furnish all the democratic campaign money required in the State of Montana. His friends say he will spend at least $500,000 rather than see the electoral vote of Montana cast for McKinley. "I contributed to the democratic campaign fund because I think the election of Bryan and Stevenson would be a great benefit to the country. The campaign committee will need funds for printing and circulating literature," he said.

Fred Hines, aged 19, confessed at Fresno, Cal., that he poisoned his father. He says he had been treated badly by him.

Thomas J. Carson, the noted thoroughbred breeder, of Lexington, who went to jail in lieu of the payment of $5,000 for shooting Photographer W. E. Singleton, took the insolvent debtor's oath. He declared on the stand that he had lost $30,000 trying to breed race horses at the Dixiana Stud.

At Osgood, Ind., a Negro jockey was wrapped in a blanket and placed on a tin roof where the sun shone on him all day in order to reduce his weight 12 pounds by the sweating process. Saxton's orchestra furnished soul stirring music and the 30 or more couples present danced the entire program of 24 numbers. Danville, Lancaster, Hustonville and Crab Orchard each sent delegations of belles and beaux and a livelier crowd could hardly have been gotten together. MARRIAGE has proven a failure in the case of Miss Emily Alexander, of this place, who married Mr. Minor, of Junction City. They began to quarrel almost before the honeymoon was over and matters went from bad to worse. She left him and started to Cincinnati to find employment. Claiming that she was making away with some of his goods, Minor telegraphed to Lexington and had her arrested, but the charge could not be made good and she went her way. THE Mission Band of the Christian church will give a reception at that church Friday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. Icees and cakes will be served for the small sum of 10c. Music will be a feature of the occasion and besides the talented here, little Misses Helen and Katherine Norfleet, two musical prodigies of Kearney, Mo., aged six and eight, will take part. The proceeds will go to the building of a home for the orphan children of India. Go and help the good cause.

THE colored Hustonville fair next week will draw many a darkey from Stanford and lots of good housewives will have to take the places of their cooks. The prospects for a successful meeting are good.

JOHN DIXON, colored, was arrested by Marshal Shannon at Crab Orchard Saturday charged with stealing a valise belonging to Prof. C. C. Monroe, who conducted the colored institute here. He had the valise in his possession. Trial Saturday.

BRYAN buttons are popular. A few days ago Higgins & McKinney got in some chewing gum with a presidential nominee button on each package. The Bryan lot went in a hurry, but those with McKinney are slow to go—only one having been disposed of.

G. A. EUBANKS, who has been voting the democratic ticket and working for the party over a quarter of a century, wants to serve the people as jailer and he has many friends who would like to see his desires gratified. Read his announcement in another column and consider his claims before you make your decision in the jailer's race.

PADGETT.—Elmore Padgett, son of George Padgett, of the Kingsville section, died Saturday afternoon, aged 23. He was a splendid young man and told his parents a few minutes before he died that he was ready and willing to meet his Maker. Mr. Boone Flint, who came here for his coffin, told us that he would be buried Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Point church, after services by Rev. Ira Partin.

DR. ED ALCONR must have had a disordered stomach when he wrote the following from Hustonville to the Danville Advocate: The most complete equipment of crooks, fakes, hums, dead beats, gamblers, thugs, whisky and beer drinkers that was ever seen in one little town were here attending the fair. It was thought last year that they were all here, but that was a mistake. Then they examined the lay of the land with the view of bringing the entire army this summer. That is a serious objection to fairs in country places.

THE Peyton family reunion at Peyton's Well was a most enjoyable affair. The following Peytons and their relatives were present: Col. T. P. Hill and wife, W. B. Hill, wife and children, Dr. J. F. Peyton, Mrs. Permelia Brown, Mrs. Mary Craig, Mrs. J. W. Hayden and children, Mrs. Bettie Smith, M. Speed Peyton, G. A. Peyton and family, E. D. Peyton and wife, Vinson Peyton and family, Jake Johnson and family, Mrs. G. W. Russell, Warren Russell and family, Mrs. W. A. Bronsin and daughter, J. L. Jarvis and wife, W. B. Jarvis and wife, Benedict Spalding, wife and sons, Mrs. C. V. Canoy and children, Miss Lee Bobbitt. Five generations were represented. The friends of the family present were: Dr. E. J. Brown, Lewis Russell, Ed and P. W. Carter, D. J. and J. H. Alcorn. Col. Hill has donated an acre of land near the well, which will be fenced in and made a pretty park for the annual reunion. The reunion comes on Dr. J. F. Peyton's birthday and he always receives the heartiest congratulations.

IN NEIGHBORING COUNTIES. Ed Evans, aged 77, is dead in Laurel. There have been five deaths in Adair county from hux. Jailer J. Polle Clark is dead at Lebanon. He was serving his third term. Miss Lucy Smith, aged 86, and the oldest woman in Nicholasville, is dead. Sam Nichols will succeed Will Lyne as bookkeeper in the Boyle National of Danville.

A postoffice has been established at Delphia, Madison county, Hayes Stocker, postmaster.

E. H. Summerfield, a wealthy farmer of Jellico, was married to Miss Lizzie, the handsome daughter of Mr. Jesse Lovelace, of London.

The Somerset Journal says that R. G. Hall and A. M. Parsons, breeders of pure setters and blood hounds, will take their kennels to the Danville fair.

The Wayne County Record is a good paper, but it would be far better if Brer. Phillips would kill a half dozen or so of his "funny" correspondents. They are entirely too funny for these serious times.

Judge James G. Carter, of Mt. Vernon, died at Berea Sunday, where he was visiting the Masonic fraternity. He was made a Mason in 1850 and was a great worker in the order. The remains were brought home for interment.

Granville Owens has bought out his partner, W. H. Colver, who is in very bad health, and will run the business alone. R. W. Wallin, of Crab Orchard, has opened a nice stock of goods in the Ed Albright store-house.—Broadhead cor. Mt. Vernon Signal.

The commercial club and city council of Somerset have agreed on a general ordinance exempting manufacturing plants from taxation for the period of five years, and have also agreed to improve the water protection of the city and extend it to all factories locating within the corporate limits.

Colored Institute.

The colored teachers' institute was held at the Baptist church last week after devotional services by Rev. A. B. Dodds, pastor of the Methodist church. Supt. Singleton delivered the opening address, F. L. Stepp elected secretary and Prof. C. C. Monroe, moderator. Mrs. E. B. Knox, R. C. Durham and F. L. Stepp were appointed committee on program, C. S. Haynes, L. T. Wade and M. E. Jones committee on resolutions. C. S. Haynes, query master, Mrs. E. B. Knox, editor, M. E. Jones, associate editor of the Institute Journal. Rev. A. B. Dodds was asked to present each morning to conduct the devotional exercises. Twenty teachers were enrolled. Supt. Singleton introduced Prof. C. C. Monroe, of Owensboro, the conductor, who delivered quite an instructive address. The program arranged by the State board of education was carried out. The committee on topics assigned the different teachers to lead in discussions. The subjects were handled in a very interesting manner. In conducting the Institute Prof. Monroe was scholarly and frequently gave eloquent in discussions. The Teachers' Association was organized, F. L. Stepp was appointed president and Miss M. E. Jones secretary of Stanford district; Mrs. E. B. Knox president and R. C. Durham secretary of Hustonville district; Mrs. C. S. Haynes president and Miss K. B. Gentry secretary of Crab Orchard district. The first session will be held at Crab Orchard the 1st Saturday in September. I take the liberty to say here that this was one of the most interesting and beneficial session that we ever had in Lincoln and we commend Prof. C. C. Monroe, our most able conductor, for his excellent work.

Ry. agents for leaflet giving full information. An experienced agent will accompany the train to look after the comfort of passengers. If you take this trip you can say you have seen the greatest physical wonder of our earth. The sheriff, after being chased by a mob, succeeded in getting his prisoner on a train or Louisville at Long Branch.
